DR. HOLMES' DEAD.

The Poet and Humorist Passed Away at Boston.

The End Came Quietly but Suddenly Sunday Afternoon.

HAD A LONG LIFE.

He Had Just Passed His Eighty-Fifth Birthday.

Has Been Removed.

BEVERLY, Mass., Oct. 8 .- Oliver Wendell Holmes died at his residence at Beverly farm yesterday afternoon. Dr. Holmes had been in feeble health for a long time, and although an iron constitution had long bailed disease, it was at last shattered. The last hours of Dr. Holmes were passed quietly, with his family at his bedside. Dr. Holmes returned to Boston from Beverly farm about ten days ago and the removal greatly fatigued him, and, it is thought, hastened the end.

Oliver Wendell Holmes was born in 1800 in the old "gambrel roofed"
house in Cambridge, Mass. opposite the Harvard university buildings. His father, Rev. Abiel Holmes, D. D., was an eminent preacher, and was long paster of the first Congregational church of Cambridge, Dr. Holmes graduated at Harvard in 1829, and, graduated at Harvard in 1829, and, adopting the medical profession, completed his studies in 1836. Up to 1847 he filled the chair of anatomy and physiology at Dartmouth, and in the latter year assumed a similar professorship at Harvard, since which time he resided continually in Boston. It would be difficult to say whether Dr. Holmes enjoyed greater distinc-

Dr. Holmes enjoyed greater distinc-tion as a physician or man of letters. Both in the theory and practice of medicine he achieved the most bril-liant success. He especially devoted himself to the investigation of psy-chological problems, raised by the interdependence of mind and matter, a romance, Elsie Venner, dealing with this subject. The success of the Atlantic Monthly was largely due to the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table and other prose pieces which he contrib-uted. His graceful and polished style invested the dryest topic with a pecu-liar charm, and made him one of the best known and most popular of American writers.

As early as 1831 Dr. Holmes' contributions appeared in various periodicals and his reputation as a poet was was followed by others in rapid succession. In 1857 he began in the At-lantic Monthly a series of articles under the title of "The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table," which were followed in 1860 by "The Professor at the Brenkfast Table," in 1872 by the "Poet at the Breakfast Table." In a idition he has published "Astraea," "Currents and Counter Curreats in Medical Science," 1861; "Elsie Venner, a Romance of Destiny," 1861; "Border Lands in Some Provinces of Medical Science," 1862: "Songs on Many Keys," 1864: "Soundings From the Atlantic." the Atlantic." 1864; "Humerous Poems," 1805; "The Guardian Angel." "Mechanism in Thought of Morals," 1870; "Songs of Many Seasons," 1874; "John L. Motley, a Memoir," 1878; "The Iron Gate and Other Poems," 1880; "Medical Essays," 1884; "Pages From an Old Volume of Life." 1883; "Ralph Waldo Emeraon," 1884; "A Mortal Antipathy," "Our Hundred Days in Europe," 1887; Hundred Days in Europe," 1887; "Refore the Curfew," 1888, and numerous poems recited at various rennions and dinners. As a writer of songs, lyrics and poems for festive oceasions, he has ong occupied the first place.

In 1886 he visited England, where he was received with great cordiality. The later years of his life have been spent in quiet retirement at Beverly Falls farm, broken occasionally by a lecture to the Harvard students.

FEW KNEW HE WAS ILL.

Dr. Holmes' Death Came Very Suddenly

and Was a Great Surprise. Boston, Oct. 8 -- Until the news of Dr. Holmes' death appeared in the papers today few people beyond the immediate family of the venerable poet knew that his iliness was critical. Though he had been a sufferer from asthma for some time and the struggle with the disease had left him in a weakened condition, it was not until noon yesterday that the first decided mark of death's coming was

In a brief quarter of an hour the great poet was no more. To outward appearances there is nothing about the residence of Beacon street to indicate that the domestic serenity within has been ruthlessly broken. The funeral services will be held at Kings Chapel next Wednesday at noon. It is expected that Rev. S. W. Brooke will be the officiating clergyman.

COMMENTS OF LONDON PAPERS. They All Publish Sympathetic Articles on Dr. Holmes' Death.

LADIES AS HIT BELS.

Women Raise a Commotion by Giving a Minstrel Show for Benefit of the Church. GALESBURG, III., Oct. 8.—Society here About a week ago some ladies, including members of Rev. Dr. Van Oudel's flock, gave a minstrel show for the benefit of the Universalist church. The affair was a great success in every particular.

The ladies had their faces blacked and also, shouted the regulation songs so common to the southern negroes and the women wore big sparkling diamond pins and played tembourines in a way that would do credit to professionals. This did not meet the approval of Rev. Mr. Van Osdel, and last Sonday evening he gave notice he would dwell upon the A Kindly and Versatile Genius subject in his next sermon. During the week the matter has been the subject for much speculation and the preacher was criticised.

Some of the members of his church requested him not to mention the subject but he published in the evening papers a card in which he claimed the right as a Baptist minister to criticise the public acts of any individual or set of individuals, and that he would continue in the course he had laid out. The regult was his church was filled this even-

He denounced in stirring torms such measures for raising money for the church. As a result of this sermon there is likely to be a break in Rev. Mr. Van Ordel's church.

FIRST HOPE THEY'VE HAD.

The Democratic National Committee Get an Encouraging Letter From Kansas. A Kansas Democrat has been giving some inside information to the leaders of his party at the national headquarters in Washington. In his letter this correspondent says:

"I am inclined to think that the Republicans will win a majority in the legis lature, and also elect their state officers, but I confess to being shaky on the latter proposition. It would not surprise me to see the Democratic state ticket win, because the Prohibition party, if it develops strength, will get all from the Republican ranks. Already 6,000 Christian Endeavorers have signified their purpose to so change. The Methodist church may add many more, as signified by three conferences. Should these defections from the Republican ranks materialize, Overmyer would be in the political swim. Jerry Simpson will be the only Populist congressman returned. Calderhead, who is opposed to Davis, is hampered by his monomentalist views, but I believe he will pull through."

Who this Democratic prophet is the national committee refuse to say, but they regard his letter as all right, for it to first Democratic geographic appropriate the resulting and the recent report of his termination. is the first Democratic encouragment they have received from Kansas this Doesn't Seem to be Much Hope for the Emperor's Life.

BRESLAU, Oct. 8 .- The Schellsiche Zeitung publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg, which says that a sudden change for the worse has taken place in the condition of the czar.

The dispatch adds that the minister of war has ordered prayers for the preservation of the life of the czar to be offerd up in all the garrison and regimental hurches. This order is said to be due to a telegram received direct from Livadia, and stating that the czar's illness has taken a disquieting turn.

MAY RECALL MENDONCA.

Minister to United States Displaced. WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 .- The report from Brazil that Minister Mendonea, who represents that country in this city, will be among the Brazilian ministers to be given a change of station, is not credited in deplomatic circles here, and is ascribed to the ill will of the rabel element in Brazil toward Mr. Mendonca. The latter was very active during the recent rebel-lion in strengthening President Piexoto against Admiral da Gama and the rebellious navy which menaced Rio Janeiro for weeks.

Mr. Mendonca had one of the Red Line steamers of New York transferred into a dynamite cruiser called the Nietherov, which proceeded to Rio and promised to cause consternation with its dynamite ter hostility, and the recent report of his probable recall is traced to the intrigues f this element, which has recently been taken back into citizenship.

The report of an insurrection at Jehot, the sent of one of the imperial palaces, and about 120 miles from Pekin, is apparently confirmed.

LOOKING FOR THE CRISIS. The Decisive Buttle of the Chinese War Will be Fought Soon.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The crisis of the China-Japan war is looked for within the next ten days or two weeks by those most interested and best informed on the contest. The legations of the two countries are expecting daily to hear that the declaive battle has been fought. This is based on the fact that the Japanese have been gradually closing in around Pekin, and the invading army is compelled by force of circumstances to strike their blow atonce, or not at all.

The intense cold which comes on about the middle of October makes this imperative. The Japanese climate is very mild even in winter and the Japanese troops are wholly unprepared for the rigorous climate about Pekin, which is due within two weeks.

The Chinese look upon this as one of MIDDLESBORO, Ky., Oct. 8. - Upon the their defences and the Japanese fully centrate their campaign for this year of nomination signed by nine members to make heroic efforts to decide the conof the district committee. #### PRINTERS' BIG MEETING.

The Convention of the International Typographical Union Meets at Louis-ville.

Louisville, Oct. 8.—The forty-second convention of the International Typographical union opened here this morning at Odd Fellows' hall.

Mr. W. B. Prescott of Indianapolis, president of the I. T. U., called the convention to read the convention to the conventi vention to order.

Dr. T. G. Eston opened the convention Mayor Taylor delivered an address of welcome to the visitors.

Col. R. M. Kelly, editor of the Commercial, welcomed the "typos" on behalf of the press and Mr. H. A. Boies, president of the local typographical union, on behalf of the local printers.

The following is an abstract of President Prescott's annual report:

President Prescott, in his annual report

as individuals. The report deals with the pressmen's imbrogilo, with the condition of the printers' home at Colorado Springs, and with the question of shorter hours. On the latter the report refers to Brazilian Rebels Seeking to Have the the defeat last year of the proposition of making nine hours a day's work, and con-

"It is evident that the causes which go to make shorter hours, such a necessity at this time, also serve to impart hope to the opposition and should warn us that adequate preparation is more necessary than ever. In a business where the profits are not usually inordinate and in which the cost of material and rent are such potent factors in the cost of production, it is futile to suppose that employers will make a change so long as there is seeming opportunity for successful re-

! Therefore it will be a duty to formulate some plan for submission to the membership which contains as a prerequisite to the adoption of a shorter work day a means for accumulating a large fund for the purpose of posecuting the fight. The most cursory observer of recent events in the labor world must be convinced that to overlook this most es-sential feature will be a prelude to a worse state than the existing one.

"Though the industrial outlook is not an encouraging one just now, yet this is the proper time to make preparation Now is the time to buckle on our armor and prepare for the fray." Touching on machines and their effect, he says: "Coincident with and perhaps in measure attributable to the depression through which the world has been passing, type-setting machines were introduced in large numbers throughout the country. Based on the most rollable information obtainable, it is a conservative statement to say that these devices, of which there are about 1,400 in operation, according to the various manufacturers, have deprived 3,500 of our members of employment. True to the storm history and ethics of trades unionism, have not antagonized them, but have with some reluctance formulated scales and entered into agreements subject to the changed conditions. Many changes have arisen and will arise to harass, and in dealing with them it will benefit us and the future of the trade to be deliberate, accepting the inevitable and securing the best terms possible. It would be a foolish invasion of facts to deny or close our eyes to the inevitable truth that machines for a time are placing us at a disadvantage in dealing with employers. This, too, can only be minimized by the application of the basic principles of unionism, hearty acquiescence in the majority's will.

"It has been advocated in some quarters that the union secure control of the patents to the existing machinery, offer inducements for the invention of new ones, rent-ing them to publishers and others. This may be dismissed as chimerical. makers of one of the most successful machines expended about $1,000,000 before any mancial return was forthcoming.

"Owing to the acute inventive genius of the age, the life of any machine is problematical, and it would take an accomulation of capital far beyond ours to successfully undertake the making of one and maintain its supremacy.

"Amid the darkness and gloom that surrounds the introduction of machinery it is pleasing to know that in the majority of cases employers have shown a disposition to engage their old employes as operators, thus effecting the least possidisturbance in the personnel of the affected unions."

At 12:30 the convention adjourned until Tuesday morning out of respect to the memory of George W. Childs and Anthony J. Drexel.

This afternoon at 2:30 there will be a street parade. In this parade will be the oldest member of the International unon; in the person of James R. Watson of his city. Air. Watson is 82 years of age. this city. The parade will be followed by an enter ent provided for the visitors at Music Hall

Regret is expressed at the defeat of the Wilson bill, and the retirement demanded of those Democratic senators who contributed to that result. The claim is made for the new tariff law, however, that it is an improvement upon the Mc-Kinley tariff. Hon. George Frederick Williams then placed in nomination as a candidate for the governorship Hon. John E. Russell.

The nomination of Mr. Russell for governor was made by acclamation. Charles E. Stratton was nominated for lieutenant governor. A committee was then appointed to escort the nominee for governor to the chair, and Hom John E. Russell then faced the convention. He was cheered again and again as he stepped forward to address the delegates.

Russell's Speech. In his speech of acceptance, Mr. Russell was not disposed to take a sanguine view of the party outlook. "Massachus-etts," he said, "is a Republican state. I believe," he continued, "it matters vory little who is governor under our absurd system of commissions and council, but this is not an off year and we must from this moment do the best we can to keep our party in line and uphold our administration; we are accustomed to defeat in Massachusetts, our party has grown up under it, as the oak strengthens in the "Free wool, free lumber, free salt," said Mr. Russell, "are great reforms. The honest attempt in the income tax to shift part of the burden now born by agriculture to the shoulders of wealth is an act our opponents do not dare to attack Mr. Russell's speech closed as follows:

"Victory may not be in success. They who make it possible may have fallen at the outposts. Bunker Hill was a defeat but the monument which shall mark it while the arch of the wide republic stands, records that it made Saratoga and Yorktown possible. "We long ago learned to bear defeat and our opponents know that it cannot crush us. Let us then acquit ourselves like men as in past times, feeling that in doing our duty we shall honor our cause and make future victory possible." The ticket was completed as follows:
